COUNTRY TRADE PROFILES

Alberta exports its products and commodities to many countries around the world. In 1982, the sum of its exports, energy, agricultural and manufactured, totalled $11.14 billion. The inclusion of service exports would boost the total to $11.64 billion. Although the majority of these exports went to the United States, (about 75 percent), exports to other countries play an important role in the development and expansion of the Alberta economy. In 1982, Alberta's Gross Domestic Product was estimated at $51.92 billion. This means that Alberta's exports support over one fifth of this province's economic well-being.

Exports provide an important outlet for Alberta goods and services. In essence, export markets serve to enhance the relatively small provincial market and allow for better economies of scale in the production process. It is important that as Alberta's economy continues to grow, so too should its export markets. The marketing of goods and services in the international marketplace has become an expensive occupation of business and government alike. The dissemination of trade-related information to Alberta businesses and officials is an important component of Alberta Economic Development's role in assisting the development of trade relations.

The Country Trade Profiles were developed to provide in a clear, concise manner, Alberta's trade with individual countries. Each profile consists of a single sheet printed on both sides, one for export trade, the other for imports. The information consists of data on the ten leading exports and imports for both Alberta and Canada, with a five year total performance. The countries selected for inclusion were chosen on the basis of export market size. In 1982, Alberta exported over a million dollars worth of goods to those countries. (There were a few exceptions: profiles were prepared where incoming or outgoing ministerial or trade delegations warranted.)

Included in the list of Alberta's top ten export commodities are Alberta Agriculture's estimates of provincial grain exports. These estimates were made, for the first time, in 1982, for selected countries. No comparative data is available for 1981. The grain exports (wheat, barley, canola and flaxseed) are listed below the "all commodities" total.

Provincial volume and price statistics for agricultural exports are unavailable due to the complexity of Canada's export distribution system. There is no accurate way of determining the potential error factor in the data. However, using estimates of production, domestic consumption, shipments to Canadian ports, and known Canadian exports, estimates of Alberta exports to certain countries have been made by Alberta Agriculture. Alberta Agriculture assumed that the proportion of Alberta's grains in the western grain system would accurately reflect its proportion of exports. Using a Canada Grains Council study, they determined the percentage of Alberta grain within the system. This percentage was used against the total grain exports of western Canada to arrive at Alberta's grain exports. The nature of the grain flow structure and certain other constraints precluded the calculation of estimates for all countries. Separate examinations were made of wheat, barley, canola and flaxseed movements.

Trade Profiles were made on 55 separate countires. Exports to the top ten countries amounted to $10.11 billion dollars - 90.9 percent of total non-service exports. (These countries were the United States, Japan, the Netherlands, Australia, Brazil, South Korea, the People's Republic of China, Tunisia, Taiwan and the U.S.S.R.) The bottom ten countries in the list accounted for only $8.04 million.

(The provincial export data is based on bill of lading information, where only those goods which are placed on board a carrier, in Alberta, destined for a foreign destination, are considered Alberta exports. Import Data is based on province of clearance information, thereby underestimating Alberta's imports in favour of those provinces with sea-port facilities.)
